Overview

IFLR invites you to join the fourth annual Women in Business Law Forum: Building the Talent Pipeline. This conference will feature some of the UK’s greatest legal thinkers in an interactive one day forum. It will cover best practices and innovation around the importance of mentoring, business development at all levels, networking and leadership to develop your career or practice.

Europe’s leading women general counsel will share their personal journeys through their legal career and challenges they have overcome. In addition to partner and general counsel level individuals, we welcome men and women at all levels of their career with the aim to foster an all-inclusive debate around the talent pipeline as well as create a network of partners, mentors and successful women.

IFLR will produce a post event report which will be distributed to attendees. The report will include talent management recommendations and case studies of interest to banks, corporates and law firms.

Who should attend:

This forum welcomes men and women within the law at all levels of their career. The aim of the day is to create and share innovative practice around building the talent pipeline within an organisation. It will be of particular interest to:

- Bankers’ counsel
- Corporate counsel
- Private practice partners
- Private practice associates
- Other professional services
